

2023 Guinness Six Nations Championship Preview

INSIGHTS PRESENTED BY Sage

Opta Facts

- France won the Guinness Six Nations last year, their sixth title in the Championship since 2000 (also 2002, 2004, 2006, 2007 and 2010), only England (7) have won more in that period (Wales also 6).
- France completed the Grand Slam in 2022, the fourth time they'd achieved that feat in the Guinness Six Nations, the joint most of any nation alongside Wales.
- France will be aiming to become the first team to win back-to-back Grand Slams in the Championship since Italy joined in 2000; Les Bleus were the last nation to manage that feat in the Five Nations, doing so in 1997-98.
- Ireland won the Triple Crown in 2022, their sixth in the Six Nations era, more than any other nation (England 5, Wales 5, Scotland 0). Ireland were the last team to win the Triple Crown in back-to-back campaigns, doing so in 2006-07.
- Italy have picked up the Wooden Spoon in each of their last seven Guinness Six Nations campaigns, however, they avoided losing all five games last year for the first time since 2015; England and Ireland are the only sides yet to finish last in an edition of the Championship since Italy joined in 2000.
- Warren Gatland has been involved in 60 Six Nations games as a head coach (50 with Wales, 10 with Ireland), the same tally as the other five Head Coaches in this year's Championship combined.
- Steve Borthwick will take charge of his first Six Nations campaign as England's head coach – he featured in 25 matches in the Championship as a player, including 10 as captain. England won a Grand Slam in their last Guinness Six Nations campaign under a new head coach (2016, Eddie Jones).
- Wales' George North (22) requires just one more try to overtake Shane Williams (22) as his country's top try scorer in the Guinness Six Nations and four more to match Brian O'Driscoll (26) as the Championship's all-time leading try scorer.
- Ireland's Johnny Sexton (531) and England's Owen Farrell (500) could both overtake Ronan O'Gara (557) as the all-time leading Six Nations point scorer in this year's Championship – Jonny Wilkinson is the only other player to have scored 500+ points in the Five/Six Nations (546, incl. 60 in the Five Nations).
- France's Antoine Dupont was named Player of the Championship following the conclusion of last year's Guinness Six Nations, the second time he's received the award in the last three years (also 2020); either Dupont or Stuart Hogg (2016 & 2017) could equal Brian O'Driscoll's record of three Player of the Championship awards should either man claim the title in 2023.
