INSIGHTS PRESENTED BY Sage

Opta Facts

- Ireland recorded their fourth Grand Slam overall and their third in the Guinness Six Nations, they are now just one Grand Slam behind France and Wales (4) in the Championship since 2000; it was Ireland's fifth title overall in the Guinness Six Nations.
- Ireland won the Triple Crown for the 7th time in the Guinness Six Nations, no other nation has lifted the trophy more than five times since the beginning of 2000 (England 5, Wales 5, Scotland 0).
- This year saw the first spread of 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 and 0 wins across the six sides in the Guinness Six Nations for the first time since 2005; in fact, this is the only time that has happened outside a spell between 2002 and 2005 when it happened four years in a row. Additionally, 91 tries were scored in the Championship this year, the most in an edition.
- France scored 174 points, including 21 tries in the Guinness Six Nations this year, more than any other team and Les Bleus' highest totals in the Championship; meanwhile Ireland scored 20 tries, their joint most alongside their last Grand Slam winning campaign (2018).
- Scotland won three games in this year's Guinness Six Nations for the fifth time in seven editions of the Championship, after doing so just once in their previous 17 campaigns.
- Ireland averaged more 22 entries per game than any other side in the 2023 Guinness Six Nations (10.6), however, it was France who scored the most points per 22 entry in this year's Championship (3.0). Meanwhile, Italy boasted the best ruck speed this year, completing their attacking rucks in exactly three seconds on average.
- England were the team with both the highest lineout (92%) and scrum (96%) success rates in the 2023 Guinness Six Nations while Wales conceded the fewest turnovers per game (11.4) and retained the most kicks from hand (21), recording the best kick retention rate in the process (14%).
- France's Damian Penaud finished as the top try scorer in this year's Guinness Six Nations (5) – the winger has now scored 3+ tries in three successive Championships, becoming the first ever French player to do so, while teammate Thomas Ramos scored 84 points, the highest ever tally by a French player in the Championship's history and the 2nd most overall (Jonny Wilkinson, 89 in 2001).
- Scotland's Duhan van der Merwe beat 35 defenders in this year's Guinness Six Nations, breaking the previous record for defenders beaten in a single Championship, which he set himself in 2021 (31).
- As well as leading his side to the Grand Slam, Ireland captain Johnny Sexton scored 35 points in this year's Guinness Six Nations to take his all-time tally to 566, moving past Ronan O'Gara (557) as the top points scorer in Championship history.
