WALES vs ENGLAND

2023 SUMMER NATIONS SERIES

OPTA FACTS

- England have won four of their last five Test matches against Wales (L1), including each of their last two – the team leading at half-time has gone on to win each of the last seven Test matches between these two sides.
- Wales have won just one of their last seven Test matches (L6), with each of their last four losses having all come by margins of 10+ points, however, Wales have scored 28+ points in each of their last two matches after scoring a combined total of just 27 points across their previous three.
- Wales have won just one of their last eight Test matches at the Principality Stadium (L7) and have lost each of their last four, their longest losing streak at home since a run of five between November 2012 and February 2013 which they broke with a 27-point win against England in March 2013 (30-3).
- England have won just two of their last seven Test matches (D1 L4) and have lost each of their last two by margins of 13+ points, conceding 11 tries and scoring just two across those matches; however, they have not conceded 4+ tries in three consecutive games since June 1998.
- England have won three of their last four Test matches away from home (L1) after winning just one in six previously (L5) – England have gone on to win 16 of the last 17 away games in which they led at half-time, including each of their last seven.
- England were the only side to win 90%+ of their own lineouts in this year's Six Nations (92.4%) and also won a greater percentage of their own scrums than any other team in this year's Championship (96.3%).
- England attempted more kicks in play per game than any other side in this year's Six Nations (34.0) and also registered more kicking metres per game than any other team (1057m), however, Wales retained possession from 14.4% of their kicks in play, at least four percentage points more any other side.
- Wales completed 9.2 offloads per game in the 2023 Six Nations, more than any other team and over twice as many as England (4.2) who made fewer offloads per game than any other side – 85.2% of Wales' offload attempts were successful, more than any other team.
- No player made more carries in the 2023 Six Nations than England's Freddie Steward (62) or Wales' Taulupe Faletau (60, level with Pierre Schoeman) – Faletau also made the joint-second most offloads of any player (8), behind teammate Nick Tompkins (9).
- England's Ollie Lawrence was the only player to cross the gainline from 70%+ of his carries in this year's Six Nations (72%, min.20 carries), while teammate Ollie Chessum had the highest carry dominance rate of any forward to make 20+ carries (48%).
