Insights by Sage

Opta Facts

- England claimed a sixth consecutive Guinness Women's Six Nations title, winning the Grand Slam in each of those years, excluding 2021 when it wasn't contested – the Red Roses have now won each of their last 29 games in the competition, the longest run by any team in the history of the men's or women's editions of the Championship.
- All six teams won a match in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, just the third time that has happened since Italy joined the Championship, and the first since 2018 (also 2010).
- France finished as runners-up in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, the fifth year in a row they've ended the campaign in second place; in fact, they've finished in the top three every year since the beginning of 2010.
- England made the most line breaks (61) and beat the most defenders (177) of any team in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations; in fact, their tally of 61 line breaks was the most by any team in an edition of the Championship this decade, while only once since 2020 has a team beaten more defenders (England - 203 in 2023).
- France made 72 offloads in the Championship this year, more than any other team, with Assia Khalfaoui making the joint most of any player (9, level with Jess Breach); Les Bleues also gained the most metres in contact of any nation (946) with Romane Menager making the most of any individual (113).
- Italy completed 862 tackles in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, just the fourth time that a team has made 800+ tackles in a single edition of the Championship this decade, with Italy responsible for three of those occasions (846 in 2022 & 878 in 2023).
- Italy retained possession from 97.3% of their scrums in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations (36/37), the highest rate of any team in a single edition of the Championship this decade, while France's success rate of 96.8% (30/31) was the second highest of any side over the same period.
- Ireland made 95 dominant tackles in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, the most by any team in an edition of the Championship this decade – Irish prop Linda Djougang made 17 dominant tackles, the most by any individual over the same period.
- Italy's Alyssa D'Inca won eight turnovers in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, more than any other player, while she also made at least four more dominant tackles than any other back in the Championship (11).
- England's Ellie Kildunne scored nine tries in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, the most by any player in a single edition of the Championship since teammate Jess Breach crossed nine times in 2019; Kildunne's tallies of 13 line breaks and 869 carry metres were the most by any player in an edition of the Championship this decade.
- Scotland's Alex Stewart and Wales' Alex Callender each made 74 tackles in this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, more than any other player – Callender also made the most carries of any player in the Championship this year, running with the ball on 70 occasions.
- Ireland's Dannah O'Brien made 79 kicks in play during this year's Guinness Women's Six Nations, at least 11 more than any other player in a single edition of the Championship this decade; O'Brien was also successful from 86% of her place-kick attempts this year (12/14), the best rate of any player to attempt 3+ kicks at goal.
